Objectives

Consider individual and collective understandings of Resiliency.

Apply a Narrative Approach to foster resilience within groups or organizations.
How Resilient Are You?
Rate yourself from 1 → 5 (1 strongly disagree; 5 = strongly agree)

• I’m usually optimistic. I see difficulties as temporary and expect to overcome them.

• Feels of anger, loss and discouragement don’t last long.

• I can tolerate high levels of ambiguity and uncertainty about situations.

• I adapt quickly to new developments. I’m curious. I ask questions.

• I’m playful. I find the humor in rough situations and can laugh at myself.

• I learn valuable lessons from my experiences and from the experiences of others.

• I’m good at solving problems. I’m good at making things work well.

• I’m strong and durable. I hold up well during tough times.

• I’ve converted misfortune into good luck and found benefits in bad experiences.

<td>Low resilience</td>
<td>You may have trouble handling pressure or setbacks, and may feel deeply hurt by criticism. When things don’t go well, you may feel helpless and without hope. Consider seeking some professional counsel or support in developing your resiliency skills. Connect with others who share your developmental goals.</td>

<td>Some resilience</td>
<td>You have some valuable pro-resiliency skills but also plenty of room for improvement. Strive to strengthen the characteristics you already have and to cultivate the characteristics you lack. You may also wish to seek some outside coaching or support.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>30 – 35</td>
<td>Adequate resilience</td>
<td>You are a self-motivated learner who recovers well from most challenges. Learning more about resilience, and consciously building your resiliency skills, will empower you to find more joy in life, even in the face of adversity.</td>

Balfour Mount with Pat Boston and Robin Cohen

- With ourselves
- With other Humans
- With the phenomenal world
- With Ultimate reality
Resilient Leaders
Brene Brown

- Relationships and Story play central role in culture and strategy
- Curious about my emotions, thoughts and behaviors
- Willing to lean into discomfort and vulnerability
- A physical practice that integrates intellect, emotion, spiritual
- Some sort of spiritual life rooted in love and belonging.
Power of Stories to Expand the Realm of the Possible

• Narrative Approaches to Therapeutic Conversations
  Michael White

  – Understands stories of peoples lives as complex and varied – with dominant and subordinate stories

  – Re-authors or “thickens” stories to arrive at less pathologizing outcomes

  – Views problems as separate from people

  – Assumes people have many skills, competencies, values, beliefs and abilities that will assist them during challenging times.
Co-Authoring Poetry in NarrativeTherapy

Christopher Behan

• Use verbatim from the conversation

• Choice phrases/words that connect the person to others, self, nature, God

• Descriptions of the problems or challenges in addition to the way in which resistance shows up

• Open form
When two friends
climb a hill, the hill
seems less steep than if they climbed it alone.

Deep Trust
There was just so much
Where do we start?
Didn’t want any boundaries
Need was so different
Profound Impact
Lots of together visits
No internal alarms going off
Spiritually aligned
bawling: Aunt just held him
Wanted to be resting
 Couldn’t let go without being calm
“I want to lay down by my wife and relax deeply”
Sat in a circle on the floor together

Shredded medications
“I like this so much better”
Period of Grace
How’d we get here?
Professional Artistry
Body – Mind – Spirit
Nurse – Social Worker – Spiritual Caregiver
Partner: My job is to integrate them
Hospice transformed the last 2 months.
There was all this meaning.
My body will go into the ground
There was just so much
Where do we start?
In groups of two

• Decide who will author a poem and who will be interviewed about a challenge at work

• The person interviewing will use the handout provided as a guide to inquire about the subject matter and use the form to jot down words, phrases, etc..

• The person who is being interviewed will share as much or as little as they wish and “lean in” to the experience

• After 5-7 minutes, we will break from the interaction

• The author will put the phrases and words into an open forum poem – there is no structure or format – but must only contain the person’s exact words. The author could interject a few questions that remain with them as a result of the listening.
There is a crack in everything. That's how the light gets in.

- Leonard Cohen
